

GHOST LOCATIONS OF EL PASO

The following are locations that we have been told by people or have read about them. GHOST-EP has not checked all of them or has not yet been able to go to the location to prove that something paranormal exists.

1. El Paso High School: According to legend, a girl slit her wrists and then jumped off of a balcony, the entrance of which is now closed off to the public. The hallway to the balcony has been walled off. In the area of the balcony many people have reported seeing unexplained mist and fog, as well as seeing a strange, viscous substance on the ceiling.
2. Loretto Academy – A Nun imprisoned in the tower without food or water for becoming pregnant seeks the sisters who sentenced her to death.
3. *Southwestern General Hospital – it's said to say a maintenance worker or a nurse was crushed to death by the elevator and has been seen by several workers and their guest staying at the hospital. Children have also been reported to be running around between floors. (For more info go to our web page)
4. *Plaza Theater – Stories of people seeing a young girl playing near the stairs, a man smoking near the restrooms located bottom floor just vanishes in thin air, to people setting in the theater top floor.
5. Chase Building: Red lights can be seen on the top floor of this building from a distance, along with the sight of a woman wearing a red dress, on the top floor.
6. Museum of Modern Art: Montana Street, Old museum location. The sight of an old woman gazing from a top floor window has been seen. Other paranormal occurrences include moaning sounds from the basement, doors opening and closing, flickering lights.
7. Building 54 Fire Station #1: The ghost loves to slam doors, turn on lights, and walk between the engines at night toward the old horse tower. He must have been a dedicated firefighter, because he's been known to try to get on the trucks when a call comes in. When he gets particularly bothersome, the living firefighters tell him, "You can go home now, your shift is over," and he'll leave them alone for the night.

Types Of Haunting

Residual Ghosts

With this classification there isn't any form of interaction at all. It is believed to be a series of past events played over and over in an endless loop. These events can have a set day and time known as an "Anniversary Imprint". They may be just as random as the previous form but can't respond or interact. It is believed that the spirit might also have no idea that it is dead and a ghost.

Intelligent Ghosts

An intelligent haunting is a haunting in which the spirit can and will interact and often communicate with the client and or investigators. This type of haunting occurs sometimes, this is not the most common form of haunting but will be encountered more than most other forms.

Poltergeists

These are perhaps the most frightening of all types of entities. They might display sensational interaction with the physical environment, and manifests only when a specific individual or individuals are present

This means that it will cause such a disturbance that normal everyday life will become impossible. It is necessary to remember that this form of haunting is extremely rare

GHOST GUIDE LINES

1. Never go ghost hunting alone and never wander off from your team. There are many reasons for this but Safety is our main concern.
2. Do not trespass it is not worth it. You can be placed in jail or even worse; hurt or killed.
3. Use your mind and common sense. Those are the best tools any person can have.
4. Never provoke them. Respect is a must.
5. A ghost may be attached to an object. So don't steal or take anything from it place. It's against the law anyways.
6. Not every location is haunted. So try to find a reason for the stories. Do a historical background check of the area and location before you go; you may be surprised on what you can find.
7. Have Fun! Why do some things that you do not want to do

Did You Know ...

"I have been at work for some time building an apparatus to see if it is possible for personalities which have left this earth to communicate with us."

The words of the great inventor Thomas Edison in an interview in the October, 1920 issue of The American Magazine.

The White House has a reputation of being haunted. On the "Rosie O'Donnell Show, Hilary Clinton noted: "It's neat. It can be a little creepy. You know, they think there's a ghost there. It is a big old house, and when the lights are out it is dark and quiet and any movement at all catches your attention."

With that said; Abraham Lincoln was renowned for his belief in the supernatural, so it was no surprise that his spirit appeared numerous times around the White House to prove his point. Residents and guests have reported knocks on doors, stomping down corridors and mooching round rooms.

1. Haunted City: New Orleans, Louisiana- The city is full of haunted mansions, taverns, and graveyards and you can't go far without hearing stories of cursed pirate ships, Civil War-era spirits, and voodoo hexes.

The Chinnery Photo, 1959 - Mrs. Mabel Chinnery decided to finish off the roll of film by taking a picture of her husband seated in the car. When the roll was developed, a female figure appeared, sitting in the back seat. Mrs. Chinnery and several family members insist that the female figure is that of her mother, who appears to have taken her customary place in the back seat and is patiently waiting to be driven home. A photographic expert examined the print and declared it to be neither a reflection nor a double exposure.

GHOST-EP is organized to bring diverse ways of thinking to capture many types of phenomena. Our method of collecting evidence will be as close to a scientific method as possible. We will also keep in mind that a true scientific method is not possible.

Examples of Dust Orbs

Orbs are flash reflections off some airborne particle of dust. Orb photos undoubtedly can be explained away as such.

Examples of Insects

GHOST TOOLS OF THE TRADE

K2 EMF Meter - The K-II EMF meter is calibrated at 60 Hz. However it measures frequencies from 30 to 20,000 Hz. This makes the meter unique and is one of the reasons it has been used with such amazing results in ghost hunting. The wide range covered by the K-II EMF meter ensures that you do not miss any energy emitted by a suspected ghost. No one has so far been able to pin down which frequency the spirit world dwells or communicates in. Therefore, using the K2 EMF meter optimizes your possibility to capture indications of paranormal activity.

Digital Voice Recorder - Digital voice recorders are a key tool in the paranormal investigator's arsenal for capturing EVPs (electronic voice phenomena). Normally if you don't hear it is possible that the voice recorder will pick it up.

Sound Amplifier - Sonic Super Ear Personal Sound Amplifier (Model 5200) Provides up to 50+ decibels of ambient sound amplification. Maximum output of 107dB. Frequency response 100 to 14000 hertz. Solid state microelectronic circuitry requires only a single 1.5 AAA alkaline battery for up to 30 hours of operation. Premium stereo headphones deliver clear, crisp sound, particularly in the human voice range.

IR Cameras and DVR SYSTEM - We use IR (infrared) cameras during investigations for the same reason we use camcorders: to catch video evidence of visual paranormal manifestations. Unlike the handheld camcorders which night vision, which we usually carry around with us throughout the investigation, IR cameras are set up in single locations reported to have the most paranormal activity. Because IR cameras record infrared rather than visual light, they provide much clearer video at a higher resolution than camcorders while filming in the dark. One drawback to the IR camera, however, is that it only records video, not audio, and so it doesn't have the potential to capture possible EVPs (electronic voice phenomena) like its camcorder counterpart.

There are so many different tools that one can use in this field. Remember there is no manual on how to do this. Beware equipment scams that claim to show you where you can find a ghost. Example Ghost Radar AP; It even states it should be used for entertainment purposes. It's a Smartphone AP enough said.
